More Boys Left Wednesday.

Undeterred by the rain, a large concourse of our people were at the depot Wednesday morning to bid adieu to thirty seven of our boys who had been called to enter the training camps for drill and other instruction that will fashion them into first class fighting material in the greatest army that was ever organized on this hemisphere.

Fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers and other relatives and friends were there to grasp the hands of the boys and wish them well.

This batch of recruits was composed of as fine specimens of soldier material as ever donned a uniform—the very flower of the young manhood of Media county—and we are all proud of them.

Following are the names of those who left Wednesday morning:

Oscar E. Wurzbach, Elmer P. Jungman, C. J. Peters, Frank G. Saathoff, Fritz Eli Burgin, Henry Brown, Louis
Franger, Henry D. Langfeld, Edward
H. Weynand, Alfred J. Schmidt, James Gibson, Oscar B. Taylor, John E. Belzung, Emil Muennink, Albert Griffin, Rudolph A. Haby, Archie Schuchart,
Joseph F. Haegelin, Walter Scheit,

J. Haby, Arnold G. Haass, J. W. Thompson,
Emil Nehr, Emil J. Fohn, Ernest
Wm. Brucks, Denman Harris, George Britsch, John G. Faseler, Louis H.
Pichot.

The deceased lived many years in the counties of Austin and Waller and moved to Hays county in 1899, where he died until December 1915. Then the family came to Medina County and resided near the ranch-home of their daughter Bertha, the wife of Mr. A. A. Rothe at Tarpley.

Only the son, Bernhard, could not be present to attend the funeral of his father, as he is serving in the marine corps, and is far away from home.

The funeral took place from the residence of Mr. Oscar Miller here, at Hondo. The burial rite of the order of the Hermannsons was observed by members of the local lodge No. 236, O. D. H. S. A great many people followed the remains of the deceased to his resting place, in the Hondo cemetery, showing deep sympathy to his surviving family. Rev. Mr. Falkenberg officiated at the grave. In kind words he soothed the painful hearts of the mourning widow, children and relatives.

Mr. Miller had a good education. He liked to discuss the great social problem of our time, as well as all other political conditions of the world. He made many friends here and this community feels deep sympathy with the mourning survivors of his family.

County Council of Defense.

The Council of Defense for Medina County held its initial meeting at the courthouse Saturday afternoon, and organized by electing County Judge R. J. Noonan as chairman and L. J. Brucks secretary. This is a local organization which co-operates with the State Council, and the latter in turn co-operates with the National Council of Defense.

The purpose of the organization is to co-ordinate the resources of the nation for the successful prosecution of the war. It can readily be seen that as the conflict progresses, the activities of the council will increase and the objects it will strive for will become manifold,—all, however, directed to the accomplishment of its main purpose.

The local council is composed of Judge R. J. Noonan, Paul Reinhart of D'Hanis, H. G. Wilson of Yancey, L. W. Burrell of Castroville, Mack Kercheville of Devine, W. B. Odom of Hondo, and the secretary,—the idea being to give each community in the county representation as far as possible, the membership of the council being limited to seven.

One of the first concrete undertakings to which the local council will address itself is to see that all available lands in the county will be planted and cultivated during the coming year. It is realized that on account of the shortage of feed and seed for planting, some plan will have to be devised for financing the farmers. In this work the council hopes to enlist the active co-operation of the business men and bankers of the county, and it is confidently expected that a feasible plan can be formulated which will overcome the difficulties which our farmers are now facing. This matter will be taken up with the State Council, and no doubt valuable suggestions and assistance can be obtained from that source.

A communication from the State Council points out the need of funds for the purpose of carrying on the work it has undertaken. The local council will also require some money for necessary expenses, such as postage, printing, stationery, etc. In order to supply these funds and to contribute our share toward the expenses of the State Council, it was decided to authorize each member to solicit and receive contributions from patriotic citizens who are able and willing to assist the cause.

The newspapers of the county will be requested to assist by giving publicity to the activities of the local council, to the end that the public may be advised as to its plans.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, October 5, at the courthouse. A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens to attend the meeting and to participate actively in the discussion of the plans and purposes of the council. L. J. BRUCKS, Secretary. Hondo, Tex., Sept. 17, 1917.

He promised us faithfully that he would not return home until it rained, but he was back on the streets here early next morning. Of two things we are confident: he does not possess one of the admirable traits of the father of this country, and that the brakeman was sleeping on his job Monday night.

Fall and Winter Crops.

BY FLETCHER DAVIS, Field Agent State Department of Agriculture.

There are thousands of acres of land in Southwest Texas adapted to the growth of small grain. There are many reasons at this time why this land should be used for this purpose.

1st. There is the present shortage in the world's supply of bread cereals and the consequent demand for an increased production of these crops. Favorable seasons are always attended by profitable yields on lands adapted to these grains in this section.

2nd. The scarcity and high price of all kinds of feed stuff. This has become so acute in many instances that farmers are selling their work stock, thereby lessening the horse-power supply of the farm. The supply of meat animals, dairy animals and poultry are being reduced to the minimum. So extensive has this movement been that in some quarters it is even feared that the supply of hogs for breeding purposes will not be sufficient to re-stock the farms with these quick-profit producers. In this crisis, the fall and winter grain crop offers the best means of "first aid," so to speak. In favorable seasons, small grain affords early and abundant grazing for all kinds of livestock. It will tide over the work animals at the minimum cost of other feeds, increase the flow of milk in the dairy cow, hasten the growth of the pork producers and mutton makers, and increase the egg supply from the poultry, while maintaining them all in a thrifty, healthful condition — all objects earnestly to be sought. Then, too, these small grains—and especially oats—offer the earliest possible source of supply for grain feed, something that will be especially needed for feeding the work animals that are to cultivate the next crop.

3rd. The scarcity of labor — both of man and horse power — on the farm at this time makes it imperative that the most extensive and efficient use possible of that labor that is available be made. Requiring less labor in preparation for and in the harvesting of than other crops and needing almost no cultivation, the small grains are great labor-savers, and consequently, in these times of scarcity and high prices, money makers.

4th. Aside from the high prices that are bound to result from the tremendous world demand and the Government's guaranteed price on wheat, our geographic situation enables us to mature small grains earlier than any other section of the United States. This means that the farmer who is fortunate enough to produce more than is necessary to supply his own needs will have the very great advantage of being the first to catch the early market with his product. The successful man is the man who has seen his opportunity and taken advantage of it.

A decided point in favor of a large acreage in small grain at this time is the comparative cheapness of preparation for the crop. This is to be especially considered where tractors are not available for preparing the land and the work must be done with work animals maintained on scarce and expensive feed. Most of the fields of Southwest Texas have been thoroughly cultivated this year. Where this is true, a thorough disking and firming of the soil to a depth of three or four inches, to incorporate the vegetable matter with the soil, improve its water-holding capacity and make a good seed bed, is all of the preparation needed for the grain drill. The practice of drilling grain into cotton stubble without further preparation is not to be encouraged and should be avoided wherever possible, as experience has proven that only in seasons of good rainfall does it produce profitable yields. It is especially important that all crops of clean harvest, such as peanuts and potatoes, be followed immediately by small grain as a cover crop to prevent washing and wind-blowing, and to keep up the necessary supply of vegetable matter in the soil. As a covering for the soil and not a yield of grain is the purpose to be achieved by this, rye would probably be the best crop to plant.

To summarize, then, Southwest Texas farmers should plant more extensively than ever of the fall grains this season: 1st, To supply their demands for bread; 2nd, to supply their live-stock with early winter pasture and early spring grain feed; 3rd, to utilize to the best advantage the labor supply on the farm; 4th, to take advantage of an early and profitable market with whatever surplus they may produce; and, 5th, to take advantage of all other incidental profits that may accrue from the crop, not the least of which is its usefulness as a cover crop where needed.

In growing the small grains, considerable loss is sometimes suffered from the ravages of the smut. Grain smut is a plant disease caused by a microscopic fungi transmitted from one season to the other through infected seeds. The spread of the disease can be largely prevented, therefore, by a proper treatment of the seeds before planting. There are several methods of treating the grain. A farmer in Williamson County told the writer that a few seasons ago he treated, as he thought, sufficient seed oats to sow his crop. In the process of planting and the rush of work, the treated seeds gave out before the crop was all in, and rather than stop his teams, he completed the sowing from untreated seeds. At harvest time, difference in favor of the treated seed as against the untreated was so marked that it could be told to the furrow where the one ended and the other began.

The treatment used by this farmer was a mixture of Formalin (a 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde, purchaseable at any drug store at from seventy-five to ninety cents per pound) with water at the rate of one ounce of the Formalin to three gallons of the water. One gallon of the mixture is usually sufficient to treat a bushel of seed. It may be applied in any efficient manner, but a simple, easy way is to spread the seed in a thin, smooth layer on the barn floor, in a wagon bed or some other place, and sprinkle the seed with this solution, stirring the seed thoroughly so as to wet all of the grain. The seeds should then be covered with a wagon-sheet, blankets or some other covering, to keep the fumes of the formalin in, and left for from six to twelve hours in this way. They can then be dried and planted as needed. Of course, to avoid reinfection the treated seed should not be placed in granaries or containers that have not also been disinfected.

The scarcity of feed and pasture as well as the advantage of giving variety to the feed should cause farmers to seek other pasture and soiling crops as well as growing small grain. Rape has been used to a limited extent for this purpose by Southwest Texas farmers. Its cultivation should be extended. The seed may be sowed in September and October, from three to five pounds of seed per acre being the requirement, and it should be sowed in drills to permit cultivation in order to maintain a soil mulch. Cattle, sheep, swine and poultry do well on it as a part of their ration, and it can be either pastured or cut and fed green as a soiling crop. If you have never done so, try some rape this fall.

The value of such root crops as turnips, rutabagas and "mangel wurzeis" as feed for cattle, sheep and poultry is little appreciated by Southwest Texas farmers. In portions of Europe these root crops form the principal food of dairy cattle. We are told that in the Island of Jersey, the native habitat of the Jersey cow, a large part of the cow's ration consists of a mixture of chopped hay or straw and these succulent roots. These are chopped and thoroughly mixed and allowed to stand until fermentation sets in, when it is fed with equal results to ensilage. In view of the high price and low quality of forage, may there not be a valuable suggestion in this for the owners of milk stock?

The farmer who patronizes agricultural journals like this one, and uses the facts found out by his experiment stations, will seldom have cause to complain of not meeting successfully the conditions that confront him, especially in this God-favored section where all seasons are a growing season for some crop and water alone is the limiting factor.

(Southwest Farmer and Investor for September.)

The Rain.

The worst drouth that has been experienced in this section for years was affectually broken this week, and as far as we have been able to learn, the rain was general throughout the intire county. Rain began falling about 2:30 Wednesday morning and fell intermittantly throughout Wednesday night and up to near noon Thursday, the precipitaion totaling 1.72 inches. A splendid season is now in the ground, stock-water is plentiful and our farmers will get busy planting oats as soon as the ground is dry enough to plant.

Another good rain fell Friday morning from 7 to 10 o'clock.

The Anvil-Herald welcomes Mr. and Mrs. E. Heineke in our town. Mr. Heineke is in the Grocery business. Our readers will find his advertisement in this issue.

HURRAH! RINGLING DAY ALMOST HERE.

Big Circus and Great Spectacle occupy Five Trains crammed with Wonders.

The big event for which the youngsters and grownups have been impatiently waiting is drawing near, for on Saturday, Sept. 29, Ringling Brothers' circus is to exhibit afternoon and night in San Antonio.

Expectancy never ran so high before and it is likely that this district will send a large delegation to feed the elephants. Unusual interest centers around the gigantic spectacle, "Cinderella", with which the famous showmen are this season opening their wonderful main tent program. "Cinderella" is probably the best loved of all fairy tales and to see it produced with more than 1000 persons, hundreds of dancing girls and glorious pageants, indeed gives promise of making "childhood's golden dreams come true." In the same great tent, will come the marvelous circus numbers in which 400 men and women performers, scores of trained animals and a galaxy of special features are introduced. The majority of the acts are entirely new to America, the Ringling Bros. having secured the pick of all European performers who have been obliged to seek engagements in this country. The all new street parade will take place show day morning.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Earnest and children returned to their home at Austin Friday after a visit of several days to Mrs. Earnest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Hornung.

RECOVERS AFTER 20 YEARS OF SUFFERING

Gains 20 Pounds on Tanlac and Says She Now Feels Fine—Told She Could Not Live 3 Months.

"When they carried me to the hospital and I refused to be operated on, I was told I would not be alive three months longer, but since I got to taking Tanlac, I have actually gained all of twenty pounds and my improvement is a surprise to lots of people who knew my dreadful condition."

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. J. H. Spears, residing at 765 Crockett Street, Memphis, Tenn., a few days ago.

"For twenty years," Mrs. Spears continued, "I suffered with a bad form of indigestion and the most painful form of cramping trouble in my side and back. Some said I had a floating kidney, some said neuralgia and others called it gallstones. I don't know what the trouble was, but anyhow I just can't describe the awful sufferings I had to endure with these spells. I had no appetite at all, and everything I ate would sour on my stomach and form gas which caused a pain to start that would draw me double. The misery would begin in my back and then work up into my chest and make my heart flutter and palpitate until it would almost choke me to death. Many a night I have stayed awake and cried with pain and misery and I have even hobbled out of bed to sit on the doorstep trying to get relief, and I was so weak, especially in the mornings, I couldn't walk.

"I had no strength at all and frequently would have to have my breakfast brought to my bed, as I couldn't get up for it. My husband spent a small fortune trying to get me well, but nothing helped me, so it was decided that an operation was necessary. I was so despondent that I felt I wouldn't live through it and refused to allow it.

"About this time Tanlac came to Memphis and though I didn't have much faith in any medicine, I tried a bottle of it and quit. Last September, my husband and I decided that I should give it a thorough trial, and I began taking it again.

"Soon after I had taken the first bottle, I noticed my appetite begin to come back, and now, my husband says he will have to get a raise in salary to keep me in something to eat. I am so ravenously hungry all the time. I have gained so that I am about to outgrow my clothes and my strength is increasing every day. My stomach is perfectly well now and I haven't had one of those spells since last September. My back and side feel a great deal better and are improving all the time and I can sleep like a child at night. After my second bottle of Tanlac, I could go to the table for meals and now I frequently cook our Sunday dinners so the cook can go to church. Money just couldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I can't praise it too much."

Tanlac is sold in Hondo by W. H. Windrow, in Devine by Lion Drug Store, in D'Hanis by Louis Carle, in LaCoste by Dickey Drug Co., and in Dunlay by Louis A. Haby.

b & c

A quiet wedding was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Albert A. Berry and Miss Hortense Sauer were united in the bonds of matrimony by Chaplain C. C. Bate man of Del Rio at the Sauer ranch home. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Galveston and New Orleans for an extended trip, and then will return to San Antonio where Mr. Berry will teach Science and coach athletics and Mrs. Berry will teach German and History at the West Texas Military Academy; both being in the same institution.

The many friends of the happy couple, for Mr. Berry was principal of the Brackett High School for two years and is well known to our people, and Miss Sauer is the daughter of our fellow citizens, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Sauer, and the best wishes of all accompany the hopes of the News-Mail that theirs be one long road of happiness.—The Brackett News-Mail.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

LIFT YOUR CORNS

OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezeone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezeone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If you druggist hasn't any freezeone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS A SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

Experience the Best Teacher.

It is generally admitted that experience is the best teacher, but should we not make use of the experience of others as well as our own? The experience of a thousand persons is more to be depended upon than that of one individual. Many thousands of persons have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds with the best results, which shows it to be a thoroughly reliable preparation for those diseases. Try it. It is prompt and effectual and pleasant to take.

Yours most gratefully,

Organize Farmers' Institute.

San Antonio Express.—Ed. R. Kone, former state Commissioner of Agriculture, and Fletcher Davis, field agent for the same department, spoke to an attentive audience at Regan Wells last night. After the speaking, the citizens organized a local Farmers' Institute with twenty-three members. Officers of the institute were elected as follows:

I. A. J. Nelson, president; J. B. Cummings, vice-president; A. C. Pickens, secretary, and Miss Katie N. Johns, entomologist. A coincidence of this organization is that Mr. Nelson, the president of the institute, was the author of the measure creating the Agricultural Department adopted by the Thirtieth Legislature in 1907. He was at that time a member of the Legislature from Kaufman County.
